Begins This Morning.

AS HAS been our custom for several years past, we have secured and offer a large collection of High-grade Wool Bed Blankets at very special prices. These blankets are offered at a quarter to nearly a half less than they would cost you if they were strictly perfect.

OPENING OF PLAYGROUND.

Recreation Spot in Charge of Two Trained Teachers.

The Washington Playground Association announces the opening of a new playground to-morrow at First and New York avenue northwest. This playground will be for boys under twelve years, and for girls of any age. It will be opened from 9 o'clock in the morning until dark every day in the week except Sunday.

Two trained teachers, Miss Olivia Baker and Miss Minerva Stern, will be on duty. This ground was obtained free of charge through the courtesy of Mrs. Allison Naylor, J. J. Darlington, and John Joy Edson, and has been improved with money obtained from Button Day. The playground officials explain the new plan of having the grounds open all day, instead of two hours in the morning and three hours in the evening, has worked admirably, and greatly increased the attendance. Trained teachers are on duty at all playgrounds, and parents may feel assured their children will be protected if allowed to go to these recreation centers.

The municipal playgrounds are now in operation at the following places: Rosedale Playground, Seventeenth and Kremer streets northeast; Virginia avenue and Eleventh street southeast; Garfield Park, and South Carolina avenue southeast; Boys' Playground, Fifth and L streets southeast; Neighborhood House, 454 N street southwest; Carver, First and H streets, southwest; Juvenile Court, Nineteenth and E street southwest; Howard, Fifth and W streets northwest; and First and New York avenue northwest.

Arrangements are being made to open another playground at Georgetown and Columbia Heights. Mr. West, of the Playground Association, says the board of directors will greatly appreciate it if the friends of the playground movement, and especially those who have contributed, would visit the playgrounds while in operation, and see how their money is being expended.

A steamboat company has kindly given the Playground Association the use of its boat for Wednesday, August 13. All money for the tickets sold for the trip on this day, will be used in helping to keep open the playgrounds. The Playground Association desires volunteers to sell tickets.

URGE POPULAR PARK

Rock Creek Should Be Accessible to the Many.

THE POOR NEED ITS BENEFITS

Lack of Cheap and Rapid Transit Practically Debars the Masses from Enjoying the Reservation, Which Essentially Belongs to Them—Bus or Stage Line Advocated.

No project which has been devoted to the public interest, and to making Rock Creek Park the proud possession of the masses as well as the classes, has met with so vital response from the people of Washington, as the present plan, inaugurated by The Washington Herald, to popularize the reservation.

Appreciation of Rock Creek Park, in an esthetic and impersonal sort of manner, is widespread; appreciation born of the intimacies of friendship and communion is limited to a very few—the few who possess means of penetrating to the heart of the beauty lurking in its labyrinth of foliage. It is beyond the reach of the many, although it is ready to receive them in its cool and delightful depths.

Summer in Tenements.
Many a precious summer day is wasted by the poor and the hard-pressed in sun-baked flats and tenements, full of stagnant air and germ-breeds of disease. Philanthropists and societies of uplift cry out with helpless protest against this condition, for with the poor even the wretched hovel is preferable to the pavement, and their children, seeking the out of doors, are sure to become waifs of the street. To such the park would be a God send.

Representative Ollie James, of Kentucky, disclaimed any knowledge of the special problems confronting the authorities in opening Rock Creek Park, but declared that any plans to popularize the reserve had his approval.

"You can quote me as saying that Rock Creek Park ought to be made accessible to the people; it ought to become the great playground of Washington," he said. "I am glad that steps have been taken to inaugurate this consummation at an early date. Undoubtedly we all need education about Rock Creek Park. Few of us realize how beautiful and splendid it is. We are apt to think that it has hardly a peer on the continent, and the world."

"I have given no thought to the plans which have been suggested, and I do not think any government would be, or should be, put to any great expense in popularizing the reservation. The plan to be adopted will undoubtedly be very simple and will involve but little outlay of money. There is no question that official Washington may be counted upon to support this plan with enthusiasm as well as the permanent population."

Urges Cheap Transit.
Equally emphatic in his declaration was A. Maurice Low, the well-known correspondent, who believes that Rock Creek Park should be easily reached from all points of the Capital.

"It is unfortunate that we cannot all have automobiles, but in the absence of them some cheap and speedy method of transit should be established. Unquestionably Rock Creek will not reach its highest field of usefulness until the people begin to flock there and until they know it from one end to the other. I think it would be a simple matter to make the park accessible. It means the extension of car lines and the installation of 'bus service. This latter is an excellent idea, and would at least partially solve the problem without loss of time."

"When the day comes that Washingtonians really know their beautiful park, it will be a day of sorry regret that they have neglected it so long. If the opportunity is given the people to make it their outing place, the gain in health and morals to the city will be incalculable."
